

ABSTRACT

A system delivers radiation to a substrate with a radiation source to generate radiation having a source intensity distribution pattern; and a redistribution radiation guide adapted to receive the radiation from the radiation source and to direct the radiation
5 from one region to different regions on the substrate so that the substrate intensity distribution pattern is different from the source pattern.